CLASSROOM NEWS

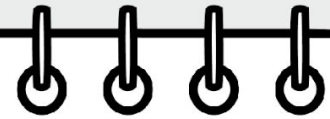

Math: Topic 1 will be ending this week. On Monday, we will do the last lesson, review on Tuesday, and the test on Wednesday. I will be sending home a signature sheet with their pre-assessment and final assessment scores. Please sign and have your child return it. We will also be doing iReady for math this week.

Reading: This week, we will be finishing Flying Solo. We are continuing to ask questions and determine how the settings and event affect the main characters. This week, we will also be taking the iReady Assessment.

Writing: We are starting the rough draft of our writing. I am not providing a lot of structure for the rough draft for this piece of writing because I want to see what they come up with. This will give me a good idea of where my instruction needs to go.

Science: We are looking at plant and animal cells, along with how these functions help them survive. This week, we will look at the anatomy of a flower and discuss photosynthesis.
